

Are you ready for a change in altitude?

“When you don’t control the elements, when you don’t fight to have the power, when you accept the doubts, when you accept the unknown and the question mark...you become a prisoner of the winds and are pushed toward the unknown. The only way to change one’s direction is when one changes the altitude. And when you change your altitude you find another wind that will take you in one direction or another. In life, if you want to change direction, you have to change your altitude.”— Bertrand Piccard, Round the World Balloonist
